

Document 7 — ProjectCo Governance Note

Isseksi ProjectCo — Governance, Rights, and Protections

Governance Structure

ProjectCo is governed by its shareholders' agreement and constitutional documents. The Sponsors (90%) direct strategy and operations; the financial partner (up to 10%) holds structured review, visibility, and protection rights. Day-to-day execution rests with the project operators under the operating agreement with Atlas Mining / the license holder and the technology license or service agreement with AKANIL / HYRION.

Sponsor Control

The Sponsors retain operational control, strategic direction, budget proposal authority, and execution authority over the expansion plan. No control transfers to the financial partner at any level of the structure. The partner holds no control premium for its minority stake.

Budget Approval and Reporting Framework

ProjectCo operates under an annual budget aligned to the Use of Funds schedule. Material deviations trigger reserved-matter treatment. Reporting follows the quarterly protocol (Document 8), with management certification on each report.

Audit Visibility and Data Room

The partner's audit rights are limited to ProjectCo accounts. All technical, geological, and strategic information is accessed exclusively through the controlled Data Room, with permission-based, logged access under the Data Room protocol. No unrestricted geological, technical, or strategic data access is granted.

Protection of License, Technology, and Confidential Data

- Atlas Mining's license position is protected: not transferred, not pledged, not controlled by the partner.
- AKANIL / HYRION technology and data architecture remain with their owners, made available to ProjectCo by license or service agreement only — never transferred.
- Confidential data is governed by the NDA and Data Room protocol; access is permissioned and logged.
- No transfer of protected assets, and no operational control by the partner, arises from any provision of the governance framework.
